

Wednesday Dinner Social at the Science Museum Of Minnesota

Wednesday, October 17, 2007

A DAY IN POMPEII

What nature destroyed, it also preserved.

On riverfront property, in downtown St. Paul, the Minnesota Science Museum brings science to life! Merging modern technology, interactive exhibits and live presentations, the Minnesota Science Museum showcases natural, environmental and medical sciences.

We will be experiencing an exciting special exhibit called "A Day in Pompeii" in which you will see wall-sized frescoes, marble and bronze sculptures, coins, jewelry, and other items that have been recovered from beneath the hardened volcanic materials of Pompeii. Personal audio tour headsets will be provided.

After a private viewing of the Pompeii exhibits, enjoy a delicious sit down dinner while looking out over the Mississippi River.

You will be requested to make a dinner choice of pecan-crust Walleye, roast turkey breast with apple cider gravy, or vegetarian during the registration process.

Buses will depart from Hilton starting at 5:45PM with last departure at 6:00PM.

Buses will depart the museum to return to the Hilton starting at 9:15PM.

