Travel to the Germany

Please take the necessary steps to determine if you need travel documentation for attending an upcoming IEEE 802.1 Session. Travel requirements may change periodically, so we strongly encourage all attendees to review the specific entry requirements for each session location. You should assess these requirements either on your own or in consultation with your employer to determine what, if any, travel documentation is necessary.

Local regulations, restrictions, and guidelines may change over time, and IEEE recommends consulting your country's consulate or Germany consular representative for the most current travel information.

Entry Requirements and Documentation Applications

For detailed information about entering Germany, please visit the following link:

<https://www.auswaertiges-amt.de/en/visa-service/buergerservice/faq/606848-606848?isLocal=false&isPreview=false>

European Travel Information and Authorization Applicability (ETIAS)

ETIAS is required for travelers from visa-exempt countries who intend to enter any of the 29 Schengen countries, including Germany.

Application Process: The application is completed online and involves providing personal information, travel details, and answering security-related questions. The process is designed to be straightforward and should take only a few minutes.

Fee: There is a fee of €7 for the application, which is waived for travelers under 18 and over 70 years old.

Validity: Once approved, the ETIAS authorization is valid for three years or until your passport expires, whichever comes first. It allows for multiple short-term stays of up to 90 days within any 180-day period.
